

♪ “Welcome Weary Traveler”

1. I am just a weary traveler; have no place to call a home.
All the doors are shut and bolted; nothing left to do but roam.
*Our door is open, weary traveler; you are very welcome here.
Warm your hands and rest your feet; set aside your woes and fear.*
2. I am just a weary traveler; no one knows my past, my name.
No one cares what I might offer; what I say seems tired and lame.
*You are honored, weary traveler. Namaste, oh, namaste!
We will hear you; we will listen. We'll consider what you say.*
3. I am just a weary traveler; but I've toiled from sun to sun.
Tried my best to make things better; no one cares what I have done.
*And we know this, weary traveler; hear our sincere thanks to you!
What you've done has made a difference.
Please accept our gratitude.*
4. I'm an angry, weary traveler; I've been wronged and I've been shamed.
Wrongful words and wrongful actions; I don't know whom I should blame.
*Please forgive us, weary traveler; we acknowledge: we're to blame.
Our mistakes we know have harmed you.
We have failed you, to our shame.*
5. I'm a sorry, weary traveler; I've committed many sins.
I do not deserve to join you; I don't think I should come in.
*We accept you, weary traveler; and we all forgive you!
What is passed is now behind us. Look-ing forward's what we do.*
6. I'm a lonely weary traveler; got no loved ones; got no life.
On the outside, looking inwards; heart is empty, spirit dies.
*We're your family, weary traveler; please accept that we love you!
You are in our hears and wishes. You are held by love that's true.*
7. I am just a weary traveler; and sadly, I must go.
I must leave your welcome company; I'm reluctant, you should know.
*We are sad to have you leave us; please accept our hopes for you!
May your travels be successful. May you come back to us soon.*

♪ “Welcome Weary Traveler”

1. I am just a weary traveler; have no place to call a home.
All the doors are shut and bolted; nothing left to do but roam.
*Our door is open, weary traveler; you are very welcome here.
Warm your hands and rest your feet; set aside your woes and fear.*
2. I am just a weary traveler; no one knows my past, my name.
No one cares what I might offer; what I say seems tired and lame.
*You are honored, weary traveler. Namaste, oh, namaste!
We will hear you; we will listen. We'll consider what you say.*
3. I am just a weary traveler; but I've toiled from sun to sun.
Tried my best to make things better; no one cares what I have done.
*And we know this, weary traveler; hear our sincere thanks to you!
What you've done has made a difference.
Please accept our gratitude.*
4. I'm an angry, weary traveler; I've been wronged and I've been shamed.
Wrongful words and wrongful actions; I don't know whom I should blame.
*Please forgive us, weary traveler; we acknowledge: we're to blame.
Our mistakes we know have harmed you.
We have failed you, to our shame.*
5. I'm a sorry, weary traveler; I've committed many sins.
I do not deserve to join you; I don't think I should come in.
*We accept you, weary traveler; and we all forgive you!
What is passed is now behind us. Look-ing forward's what we do.*
6. I'm a lonely weary traveler; got no loved ones; got no life.
On the outside, looking inwards; heart is empty, spirit dies.
*We're your family, weary traveler; please accept that we love you!
You are in our hears and wishes. You are held by love that's true.*
7. I am just a weary traveler; and sadly, I must go.
I must leave your welcome company; I'm reluctant, you should know.
*We are sad to have you leave us; please accept our hopes for you!
May your travels be successful. May you come back to us soon.*